NEXT GENERATION MOBILE BANKING LAUNCHED BY MONITISE

Monitise, the leader in global mobile banking and payments, today announces the launch of the next generation of mobile banking with its enhanced Mobile Money Manager platform.

The new version, now available, enables Monitise's mobile apps to deliver a state-of-the-art customer experience including intuitive navigation, cutting edge design and fast responses.

The apps enable millions of UK bank account holders to check their balance or get a mini-statement on their mobile phone by text in seconds.

They can be easily downloaded to over 2,700 different handsets, including smart phones which let them get bank balance alerts, transfer money and pay bills.

Recent research by the Future Foundation, the think tank, underscores the view that the mobile banking revolution is well underway, with 30 per cent growth in the market in 2009.

Monitise reported 1.3 million registered users in December across the UK and US, through the secure technology it provides to over 200 financial institutions, and handles over 2m transactions a month.

Mike Keyworth, chief operating officer at Monitise, said: "Mobile banking means customers can check their bank balance, receive alerts and transfer money anytime and any place without the need for a laptop or to make a call.

"Our next generation Mobile Money Manager makes this even easier for people. We are bringing banking to life; in tune with the way people run their lives, fast and on the move.

"Undoubtedly the mobile banking revolution is here and now. We have taken a major step forward with this latest version and it can only get better."
